

Cleaning and Care

What is the Living Finish that copper has?

The beauty of copper is its living finish or patina. It builds overtime and works as a protective coating. The patina is a rich weathered finish with light and dark tones complementing each other and creating the unique effect of copper.

Certain substances or materials left in contact for an extended period of time may discolor the patina. If this occurs the copper will naturally re-patina and darken giving the finish a natural copper blend. Examples of products that will remove the finish leaving your sink with shiny areas: Soft Scrub, Clorox Bleach, Drano or Acidic foods and products.

Pure Copper Sinks will age and patina with time and use. Copper is a living metal with unique and natural properties. Depending on cleaning and exposure to standard household chemicals copper will change light to dark to light with typical use. Typically an installed and frequently used copper sink will resemble the finish of an old penny.

How to Care for Your Copper Sink

For daily cleaning, simply wash with mild soap and water. We recommend wiping dry with a soft cloth after each use to minimize spotting

To help protect your new sink further, we recommend applying a light application of high-grade carnauba wax with no polishing agent. We have a copper care/repair kit available for purchase from authorized dealers.

- Wash with mild soap, water and a soft cloth or sponge
- Wipe dry after each use to minimize spotting

- DO NOT use strong abrasive cleaners, metal scrub pads or steel wool. These will scratch the surface
- DO NOT put hot pots or pans directly into sink, allow to cool slightly
- DO NOT leave dishes, glasses, pans, etc. in your sink for a prolonged period of time
- DO NOT let acidic materials (citrus, tomatoes, industrial soaps, tooth paste, etc.) remain in contact with your sink. It could remove the patina and drastically change the look and finish of your sink.

Recognize that copper is a living finish which will age and change naturally. The early spotting and color variations are part of the patina oxidation process and will fade into the patina with time. Be patient, this is part of the beauty of copper.
